Postal Connections in St. Johns tops the sales charts

Mark and Cherie Smith, owners of Postal Connections of St. Johns were recently awarded a top sales distinction for their sales prowess during the brand's annual convention in Orlando.

"We are so happy to receive this positive recognition for yet another time," said Mark. "We are grateful that our business allows us to make meaningful and lasting relationships in our community, and we are thankful to receive such encouragement and support from Postal Connections."

The Smiths joined the Postal Connections family in 2007 and have since become a trusted and valued resource in the area. Located in Clinton County, Postal Connections in St. Johns serves many small communities including Fowler, Dewitt, Elsie, Ovid, Owosso, Middleton, Perrinton, Ithaca, Alma, Ionia and Maple Rapids.

"Mark and Cherie are the right entrepreneurs to receive this prestigious recognition. Their unparalleled commitment to their community and their staff has allowed them to create a successful and viable business," said Fred Morache, co-owner and COO of Postal Connections. "We are looking forward to seeing their continued success in the years to come."
